VARIOUS OPINIONS AS TO ITS EFFECTS. THE COUNSEL HARD AT WORK ON THE CASE-

ALDERMEN APPARENTLY TRANQUIL. Jacob Sharp was standing in the office of Robinson, Scribner & Bright yesterday, where it is his wont to appear daily, and by his side stood a water tank. He gently turned the fancet and let the water run cold into a cup and then carefully raised it to his lips. He took a swallow, then suddenly faltered, as a look of consternation came over his face, and he dropped the cup as if it had been an adder.

"By George!" he exclaimed. "My doctor told me 1 must not drink water. I've got to confine myself to rilk."

Mr. Sharp's milk-ean has played an important part in the hearing so far. It is a glass can, holds a quart and is the regulation pattern for the preservation of fruit, Mr. Sharp catries it with him wherever he goes.

"Do you want to know why I take it?" he asked yesterday. "Sit down and I'll tell you." His visitor obeyed the injunction and Mr. Sharp continued: "It is diabetes. I am a great sufferer from it, or have been. Dr. Loomis, my physician, has ordered me to drink milk for it, and he says I must take no water."

No. I get it here and I know it's good."

"How do you know?"

"Because I keep my own cow. Yes, sir, I've got ber right here in the city and I know I get pure milk. No water in that, at least from the milk-"Is it a blooded cow?"

"Is it a blooded cow!"
"Well." and Mr. Sharp's face grew quizzical. "I know there's blood in her. No, she's not an Alderney, but I know she's a good reliable cow and she gives good milk, and I think I ought to be a judge of that's good milk."
" How much do you drink a day ?"

"How much do you drink a day?"

"Five quarts."

Mr. Sharb disappeared in the remote interior of the office, where there was no water.

To all external appearances there was a 'Iull all along the line yesterday in the Broadway investigation. But much was going on under the surface. Roscoe Conkling and Clarence A. Seward were engaged in developing their line of attack. Just what it was they kent pretty well to their selves, but it is going about that they hold certain testimony in reserve, of which they expect, to make telling use. Some of it has a bearing on who got the ten bonds unaccounted for.

As to the effect produced generally by Jacob Sharp's testimony the comments were as various as the ten bonds unaccounted for.

As to the effect produced generally by Jacob Sharp's testimony the comments were as various as the men making them. The most outspoken of all those interested, directly or indirectly, in the investigation were the cable people and those interested in the Frothingham suit which was instituted to find out what had become of the $2.500,000 first and second mortgage bonds issued by the Broadway Surface Railroad Company and guaranteed by the Broadway and Seventh Avenne Railroad Company said:

The testimony of Mr. Sharp plainly indicates that there was a combination of the worst kind in the execution of the entire scheme. It shows that Jacob Sharp was a whole construction company fully authorized to build and equip the road and turn it over to the Broadway and Seventh Avenne Railroad Company. He was the agent in the whole transaction. The $2.500,000 in bonds was issued and turned over to him. What did he do with them I He has accounted for $1.800,000, but $700,000 is still wanting. What occame of that is the question. The whole road cost really not over $135,000. Before Mr. Conking gets through with Mr. Sharp he will give the witness some through with Mr. Sharp he will give the witness some through with Mr. Sharp he had to a limit that he could not tell anything about that $700,000 hints. $692,000 in exact figures. What is my summary of my opinion of the result so far I It is this: I believe that after such testimony the Senate will yet be sold at public auction to the highest bidder.

All those who are directly interested in the matter exhibited a pertinacious reluctance to the use of their names. Under the promise of secrecy one who has been active in pushing the Frothingham Buit said:

Mr. Sharp's testimony proves just what we have with said:

Mr. Shatp's testimony proves just what we have alleged all along, that the whole thing is a fraud from beginning to end, that there never was any such corporation as the Broadway Surface Company, and that it was merely a form of disguise of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Bahroad Company. Look at the second agreement between the two companies. In that the Broadway Surface Company retains the right to ran not more than five cars on the road. That was a mere form, a subtetinge to convey the idea that there was a bong fide corporation known as the Broadway Surface Ratiroad Company. Mr. Sharp's testimony shows that he was a whole, undivided construction company and he put the bonts where they would do the most good.

Lawson N. Fuller, the "father of cables," said in regard to Mr. Sharp's testimony:

O, my son, Mr. Sharp is too old a coon to get into a trap. I told them that all along. Let them look for certain investments in property and they may find something.

The Aldermen and ex-Aldermen interested appear The Aidermen and ex-Aldermen interested appear to be going about as usual. Alderman Jachne has been a constant attendant at the hearings and visited the City Hall yesterday. All who saw him said that he was tranquil. There were ramors that William H. Moloney, the reader of the Board of Aldermen, had left the city, because of poor health. But he was at the City Hall on Monday and his acquaintances say that he will appear before the investigating committee when wanted. Mr. Seward was asked if the committee's counsel and met with acquaintances say that he will appear before the investigating committee when wanted. Mr. Seward was asked if the committee's counsel had met with any difficulty in getting hold of their vitnesses, but he looked wise and said he would say nothing. Colonel Bhss was in the same condition.

Alderman Earle, who entered the Board as an opponent of a railroad in Fitth-ave., and who has followed all the hearings closely, said that he thought Mr. Sharp had netted as a construction company, but he did not see what there was to prevent that. Time and the committee's counsel could alone ferret out the whole matter. The Braadway people were perfectly ser ne apparently, and expressed themselves content thus far.

The following resolution was adopted by the Board of Trade and Transportation:

It is the sense of the Board that the Committee of the Senate, inquiring concerning the alleged brinery and corruption connected with the precuring of the franchise of the Breadway Railroad, should probe the matter to the bottom, and that all persons found guilty of giving or receiving bribes should be punished to the fallest extent of the law.

SHOULD FARMERS RAISE THEIR COWS? DISCUSSION BY THE BEDFORD CLUB-ADVANTAGES OF DIFFERENT SYSTEMS.

OF DIFFERENT SYSTEMS.

The monthly meeting of the Beaford Farmers' Clab was held yesterday afternoon at the Public Library and Reading Room in Katonah, Westchester County. The Rev. Lea Luguere presided and John B. Day was secretary. An address was made by Secretary Corr, of the new Westchester County Agricultural and Horticultural Society, asking the aid of the club in the attempt to revive the annual county fairs at White Flains. The charter, he said, of the old agricultural society, would be revoked in March and the new society incorporated. It would be organized as a stock company, and would probably hold a fair next fall. A resolution was passed favoring the project. The question "Shall we raise our own cows?" was then discussed. William R. Strong, the principal speaker, said that he had had a limited experience with raising cows. He added:

In fact, as a dairy farmer, I have generally followed.

speaker, said that he had had a limited experience with raising cows. He added:

In fact, as a darry farmer, I have generally followed the old system of buying a cow, milking her out and then selling her again. But that system is very costly and really disastrous in its effects. Westchester farmers have sometimes seemed to me to have only one idea—to make all the milk possible, without reference to cost. Every cow was put at high pressure, and when after a few months she ceased to be profitable for milk, was sold for beef and a new one bought in her place. The quality of the milk could not fail to suffer by this continual chan se and mixture of animals. I do not believe, however, in raising calves. It is much cheaper to buy yearings than to feed calves on milk and fonder for that length of time. It pays better to sell calves for yeal, spart from the difficulties and uncertainties of raising them. A calf from a good milking cow need not have any of the excellence of the mother. The milk and butter producing qualities, in fact, are derived chiefly by a peculiar cross from the built. And using common stock, as we do, it is no creat matter to breed from animals we already know. It's a question of profit and loss increly, and as cattle are chesp now I should recommend in most cases the buying cf-calves under two years. By careful attention and life, use, perhaps, of ensilage, the dairy business can be made fairly profitable.

In the discussion that followed Mr. Wood, of

In the discussion that followed Mr. Wood, of Katonah, strongly opposed the method of buying. This he said, could be justified only on the principle that the man selling sold really good cattle. He continued:

But no one of us wants to sell a cow unless she has some defect. The cows we buy are the refuse of the great dairy districts. They come here by the car load after they have been used out elsewhere. Breesling on one's own dairy farm is the only way to get a uniformly good quality of milk and keep the quality of the stock up to a creditable point.

There were also representatives present from the Pathological Society, the Surgical Society, the New-York Missionary Society, the Surgical Society, the New-York Missionary Society, the Surgical Seminary, the students and Union Theological Seminary, the students and faculty of the University Medical College, Bellevue College, the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and St. Luke's and the Presbyterian Hospital.

That were behind the mirrors, brass rods drop into their places and the beds are made up. The whole outfit is light but strong, and the car weighs fifteen tons less than a Pullman sleeper, in addition to the advantages of convenience, good ventilation, etc.

WORK OF THE AQUEDUCT COMMISSION. TIMBERING THE TUNNEL'S ROOF-STORING EX-

PLOSIVES-THE QUAKER BRIDGE DAM. PLOSIVES—THE QUAKER BRIDGE DAM.

The Aqueduct Commissioners yesterday received from the Corporation Counsel an opinion relative to the demand of the Commissioners of Accounts that they be furnished with a weekly report of the accidents along the line of the aqueduct and certain other information. Mr. Lacombe holds that the Aqueduct Commission is not a part of the city government, that it derives its powers from an act other than the charter and that it is not compelled to furnish the information demanded. On this opinion the commission refused to give the information.

opinion the commission refused to give the information.

The contractors along the line of the aqueduct some time ago asked that they be allowed to make a change in the timbering of the roof of the tunnel and that their rate of compensation be changed on this account. Under the terms of the contract the timbers which support the roof of the tunnel are so placed that a square excavation is made. The masonry is then carried up from the base and forms all partial arch. By arched timbering the roof is supported more effectually than by the former mode, and there is less excavation required, the cock forming the arch being left in position. The contractors asked that they be allowed the same amount as when the rock is removed for a square excavation, the excessive cost of timbering being accepted as an offset. An opinion of the Corporation Connsel was read, declaring that the commission could only authorize payment for excavation done and masonry built. The matter was then laid over.

sion could only authorize payment for excavation done and masonry built. The matter was then laid over.

Chief Engineer Church asked that the pay of the division engineers be increased from $2,400 to $3,500 a year. This also was laid over.

A letter read from L. G. Morris to the Mayor calls his attention to the recent explosion at shaft No. 22, and says that there is now a magazine at shaft No. 23, and another at the ligh Bridge shaft. He says that there are probably others similarly situated along the aqueduct. He requests the Mayor to take steps to relieve the community from danger of explosions. Mr. Rogers, the sub-contractor at shafts No. 22, 23, and 24, was questioned by Chairman Dowd. He said that he had tried to get safe places for the magazines. He had asked Andrew H. Green and Fordham Morris to lease sites for magazines where there would be no danger to life or property and they had refused. It was necessary that explosives should be stored near the work.

On the recommendation of Chief Engineer Church, William R. Hanton was temporarily employed as consulting engineer and also to perform the duties of deputy chief engineer in the absence of Alphonse Fteley, at a salary of $6,000 a year. It was announced that Consulting Engineer Joseph Davis had gone to Europe on leave of absence.

Chief Engineer Church, has submitted his reasons for recommending the building of the Quaker Bridge Dam. He summarizes his reasons thus:

First—It is the surest and most expeditious means of securing the required storage.

Second—It gives the purest water.

First—It is the surest and most expeditious means of securing the required storage.

Second—It gives the purest water.

Third—It gives the best control of storage.

Fourth—It is the best sategoard against the stoppage of the city's supply by a possible failure of dams above, to the injury of Croton Dam.

Fifth—Without it the suprly of the whole water-shed cannot be secured, and the size and cost of the new aqueduct will be rendered unwarrantable.

Sixth—It best preserves healtoful conditions for inhabitants in the Croton Valley by keeping the bottom of the reservoir always covered, and prevents local malarial influences.

STOCK EXCHANGE GOVERNORS. THE RELATIONS OF MESSES, HOLLINS AND BREESE

-DISCUSSING A PARTNERSHIP.

THE RELATIONS OF MESSES. HOLLINS AND BREESE

-DISCUSSING A PARINERSHIP.

The "breakfast table discussion" which occurred at the South Side Club, at Babylon, L. I., ou New-Year's Day, between H. B. Hollins and William L. Breese, both well-known members of the club and of the Stock Exchange, has apparently not been ended. At the regular meeting of the Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange yesterday, the formal complaint of Mr. Hollins against his athletic controversial opponent was presented with the result of exciting considerable discussion. The "affair" at the club was not the ground of the complaint, although it may have been the occasion. Mr. Hollins complained that Mr. Breese had attaceed his character and credit by derogatory remarks about him on the floor of the Exchange. The committee was bound, of course, to consider this charge, and after a lively discussion referred it to the sub-committee of arrangements for investigation. It has been a matter of common repute in Wall Street that, after some transactions in Lake Shore stock nearly two years ago, which did not result profitably to the firm of Breese & Smith, the friendship between the scinor parinet and "Harry" Hollins was suddenly cooled. Mr. Breese, it has been said, has sought rather than avoided opportunities for expressing his opinion of the man who has had the name of being "Wille" K. Vanderbild's tavorite broker. Shortly after the affair at the South Side Club, Mr. Breese resigned his member ship, because the club committee could hardly escape the conclusion that so far as the club was concerned he was the aggressor. A prominent member of the club said afterward that the resignation was acknowledged by everybody to be the casiest way out of a bad predicament.

The Governing Committee also had under discussion the partnership of Henry S. Ives & Co., against which complaint had been lodged by a meaber of the board. T. C. Ippennis, a son of Professor Doremus, was admitted to the Exchange on the last day of the year and immediately afterward he Doremus, was admitted to the Exchange on the last day of the year and immediately afterward he entered into partnership with Mr. Ives. The Committee of Arrangements investigated the charge and made a partial report yesterday. The by-law in regard to partnerships that might be detrimental to the Exchange was passed to prevent association between members and "bucket shaps." It was designed to prevent illegal partnerships. The question was raised at the meeting whether the committee could dissolve a partnership that was good in law. The sub-committee was instructed to complete its report. Mr. Ives successfully engineered about two years ago a corner in Mutual I nion Telegraph stock, which had not been struck from the list, although new stock had been issued for it. He was not a member of the board, but the corner was effective. orner was effective.

WOODS AND TIMMINS CONFESS. TELLING BOW THE TARRYTOWN BURGLARIES WERE

Robert H. Woods, who has been held a prisoner at Police Headquarters on account of his connection with the Farry town burgaries, made a full confession to Inspector Byrnes yesterday, giving the names of his accomplices and the details of the crimes. He said that in the different robberies the leader was always Timmins, who is now held in the grasp of the law at Lynn, Mass. With Timmins at their head the band broke into the houses of the Lombards, Stormess and Sees on the night of January 21. They pried open the shutters with a jimmy under the instruction of Timmins, who, heing an ex-convict, was an adept in the art. COMMITTED.

Lombards, Stormese and Sees on the hight of January 21. They praed open the shutters with a jimmy under the instruction of Timmins, who, being an ex-convict, was an adopt in the art.

On the night of January 18, Woods said that he and Timmins broke into the house of Mrs. Soina Coes and stole $40 which they divided between them. The stolen silverware and jewelry a cured by the three burelaries of January 21 were partitle a pillow-case and hidden in a shed near the railroad for the first night, and then they were taken to a haystack in a distant field. Woods said that he thought they were in the haystack until he was taken to the place on Monday by Central Otheo detectives, when he found that they had been removed. He had no idea where they were taken to. Woods's statement was taken down in the form of an affidavit, and it is said to implicate two young men of Tarrytown whose social position renders it difficult to suppose that they could have been partners in the burglaries. The jeweiry bought from Woods by Detective McLaughlin, when he was passing as a receiver of stolen goods, was taken to White Plains yesterday by McLaughlin, and turned over to District Attorney Baker. Part of it was identified as having been stolen from the Storms house. Inspector Byrnes said yesterday that he was ready to band the prisoner and the case over to the Westchester authorities.

Detective John S. Wood, of Pinkerton's Agency, went to White Plains yesterday and placed in possession of District-Attorney Faker information which caused him to swear out three warrants before Justice Long for the arrest of three persons supposed to be implicated in the burglaries, and last evening officers were sent by Sheriff Dinfty to arrest them. It seems that Detective Wood had just returned from Lynn, Mass, where he obtained from Timmins, the man under arrest there for cleaning out a saloon, a full confession of his part of the robbery.

SHORTHAND WRITING BY AN EXPERT. Edward T. Underhill, stenographer of the Surrogate's Court, taiked about shorthand last evening, before the Metropolitan Stenographers's Association at No. 2 East Fourteeath-st. The place was crowded with the members of the society. "Firteen years ago," said Mr. Underhill, "a gathering of stenographers of this size would have been impossible in this city. Why, even ten years ago, I knew by name almost every professional shorthand writer in the country. Our numbers have increased wonderfully within the last few years, but the supply does not yet exceed the demand." David W. Field, he said, was the man to whom the profession was largely indebted, since it was he who got the bill passed declaring the stenographer an official court adjunct. He thought that Isaa Pitman's system was really the only system, since all the others were merely imitations or modifications of this one. He further stated that there were in the English language only about 1,200 words used The funeral of Dr. Alfred C. There was a large attendance of the medical profession and representatives from the many medical and charitable societies with which Dr. Post was connected. The Rev. Dr. John Hall and the Rev. Dr. George L. Prentiss officiated. The nailbearers were Dr. Abraham Jacobi, president of the Academy of Medical Society, Charles Butler, M. M. Backus, Dr. William N. Blakeman, Dr. A. L. On the complaint of Peter Jones, Gustave Victorson will be suspended during the pleasure of the Board for using insulting language on the door of the exchange.

Mr. Victorson is the representative of Field, Lindley & Co., on the Exchange, and on January 21 he accessed Mr. Jones of stander and marking false statements regarding his method of doing bushess. Af er an interchange of undramided expressions, Mr. Victorson was heard to access Mr. Jones of being "a liar." Within two hours Mr. Victorson sent to Mr. Jones a letter of apology. But this was not satisfactory to Mr. Jones. Then Mr. Victorson proposed to apologize to Mr. Jones through the Complaint Committee, but Mr. Jones would not consider that proposition. Max Held and John Wakeman were appointed a Committee of Three, and they decided upon a letter of apology which Mr. Victorson acreed to sign but again Mr. Jones refused to accept the terms. The Board of Managers yesterday asked Mr. Victorson if he would sign a letter of apology to Mr. Jones, and allow it to be posted on the public bulletins of the Exchange, but he answered that his language was not of a character to require that he should humble himself to that extent. Then the Board suspen field Mr. Victorson. It is believed that the "pleasure" of the Board will have been fully appreciated by to-day and Mr. Victorson will be restored to full membership.

Members of the Produce Exchange interested in corn contracts had some bitter things to say yesterday about David Dows & Co. It is charged that they have worked a corner in the market, especially February delivery, and are giving the "shorts" a bad squeeze. They hold, it is asserted, between one and two millions of bushels of the "No. 2" grade, and yesterday a member of the firm took the whole crop at 14 cents a bushel above the closing quotations. The "shorts" are mostly Wall Street speculators who have recently been prominent in the grain market, also some of the receiving houses. Buyid Dows & Co. are said to have begun buying largely of February and March contracts for No. 2 corn when it was at 49 cents, and have kept on until they believe they have a firm hold. The market has steadily advanced, but created nothing like the extrement that prevailed yesterday. Mr. Cooksey conducted the trading on his side and hought largely. When E. K. Clark offered 100,000 bushels at 53, Mr. Cooksey shouted, "Pil take It," and noted the traic. The price advanced to 54, Mr. Cooksey taking all that was offered at that price until a few minutes before the close, when he retired and the market dropped back to 534, at which figure it closed. Later, he offered to take the entire crop of No. 2 at 55, and to make settlements with the "shorts" at 56. A few loads were sold for export by the Dows at a concession, upon condition that it would be actually taken from the market. Great interest is manifested in today's developments. Members of the Produce Exchange interested

The opening session of the first National Convention of Retail Boot and Shoe Dealers was held yesterday afternoon in Everett Hail. East Fourthst. The room was comfortably filled with prosperouslooking merchants from various parts of the country. Ten States were represented. The meeting was called to form a National Association that would have for its object the promotion of the interests of the retail boot and shoe trade. Nearly all the afternoon was spent in making this organization. It was finally completed with the following officers: President, David T. Lynch,

RESTRICTING THE POWER OF THE POLICE. RESTRICTING THE POWER OF THE POLICE.

The opinion of F. A. McCloskey, counsel to the Police Department in Brooklyn, relative to the powers of the police in regard to sacred concerts on Sundays is that such concerts are lawful and not to be interfered with. His opinion is sustained by that of Corporation Counsel Jenks. In his opinion Mr. McCloskey says: "There is nothing in a strictly sacred or religious concert that is perious to public peace or economy, and therefore the police cannot interfere so long as those in attendance are well behaved. The observance of the Christian Sabhath is not a part of our law." These opinions make the action of the police wholly indefensible and the city is likely to be sued for damages by the miniagers who were interfered with last Sunday.

SCHAEFER AND VIGNAUX TO PLAY AGAIN. The articles for the second match between Schaefer and Vignaux were struct last evening. It is for $1,000 a side; winner to take all, and loser to pay all. graced the court of King William of Holland.

THE FIGHT IN RAHWAY'S CITY GOVERNMENT.

Mayor Daly, of Rahway, followed up his statement published on Tuesday morning by a message to the Common Council in the evening, in which he arraigned the majority for faling to meet his efforts to enforce a strict compliance with the law in the matter of payments from the treasury, and for asking him to sign a warrant payable to the treasury of the amount of his illegal payments. He refused to sign the warrant and gave his reasons in such a foreible manner that no attempt was made to deny their truth. He went into the bills in detail, showed that they had never been audited, and that the required number of votes was not received for the passage of the warrant. "It is your duty to compel every efficer to be honest," he added, and he informed the Conneil that he majority were disposed to smother the message by putting it "on file," but the minority so clearly pointed out that it demanded consideration, that it was finally referred to the Finance Committee. This is about as good as sending it to the city attorney himself. THE FIGHT IN RAHWAY'S CITY GOVERNMENT.
